

(上接A30版)

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and codes. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a company name and a list of products or services with their respective values and codes.