

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, likely representing different fund categories or time periods. Each row contains detailed information such as fund names, management companies, and performance metrics.