

(续A16版)

Table with multiple columns containing fund names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a fund name and code. It lists various types of funds including equity, bond, and money market funds, along with their respective managers and performance metrics.