

(上接A22版)

Table with multiple columns containing company names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a company name and code. Each row contains detailed financial information including dates, amounts, and percentages.