

(上接A49版)

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a row number (e.g., 389, 390, etc.). Each row contains a company name, a numerical value, and a date. The data is presented in a structured, tabular format across the entire page.