

Table with columns for company name, product name, amount, and status. The table is divided into multiple sections, likely representing different categories of disclosures or different companies. Each row contains detailed information about a specific financial product or company action.